

September is Here!

With September come thoughts of planting fall crops and plants, trees and shrubs, perennials for next year, and garden clean-up.

Check out the opportunities to learn about fall gardening and earn 2017 CEUs and volunteer hours the next couple of months. See the Calendar of Events located at the end of this issue!

Herb Saplings Meeting

September 7, 7 pm at Exchange Place. Herbs of Folklore and Legend: Exploring the rich superstitions and stories associated with some of our most beloved useful plants with Christy Shivell. Bring and herb snack to share if you have time. Herb Saplings is a focus group of Southern Appalachian Plant Society (SAPS.)

"Autumn - Nature's Last Hurrah" Gardening Lecture

Horticulturist and garden writer Hugh Conlon will speak on "Autumn - Nature's Last Hurrah" on Thursday, September 21, 7 p.m. at Kingsport Center for Higher Education, 300 W. Market St. in downtown Kingsport.

Fall in the garden is not just changing leaf colors, planting mums, and pumpkin displays. Autumn weather here in East Tennessee is usually very comfortable and relatively dry. This permits gardeners to toil less and enjoy their gardens. There are so many wonderful fall blooming plants that we can be planting, some that extend into the winter months. With gorgeous photos, Hugh will showcase some of the best plants for a spectacular fall garden and offer lots of useful landscaping ideas.

Hugh Conlon is an active garden writer and speaker since his retirement from the University of Tennessee in 2011. He has been a professional horticulturist for 45 years. Hugh is the creator of the gardening website: whatgrowsthere.com. He speaks at Master Gardener classes in Tennessee and presents garden club talks and nursery/landscape programs in Tennessee and other states. In addition he contributes articles to Tennessee Gardener and other gardening magazines and consults frequently with gardeners, commercial landscapers and growers.

Sponsored by Southern Appalachian Plant Society (SAPS), the program is free and the public is invited. For more information phone 423-348-6572 or email sapsinfo@embarqmail.com.

Exchange Place Fall Folk Arts Festival

Exchange Place Living History Farm, 4812 Orebank Road in Kingsport, will hold its 46th annual Fall Folk Arts Festival on Saturday, September 23, from 10 am to 5 pm, and Sunday, September 24, from 12 noon to 5 pm. The Festival will focus on pioneer arts and crafts and harvest time activities on an 1850s farm. Admission is $3 for adults with children under 12 admitted free.

Artists from throughout the region will gather to demonstrate and sell functional necessities of long ago as well as hand crafted arts of today. Guilds, associations of artists, will pass along their skills and wisdom to others as they would have in the 19th century. Many unique items will be for sale including cuckoo clocks, leather fly swatters, hand carved caricatures, dough bowls, white oak piggins, quilted wall hangings, hooked rugs, refurbished cane chairs and one of a kind jewelry...all handcrafted out of natural materials. Juanetta Swatzell of Greenville will do a "Quilt Turning" as she shares stories of quilts collected over decades on Saturday at 11 am and 2 pm, and on Sunday at 2pm.

The Harvest Market areas will offer fall produce as well as plants, cut flowers and seasonal crafts along with a wide range of baked goods and goat milk cheeses.

Heritage Artists and volunteers will bring history alive with demonstrations and hands on activities. Sorghum making will be a highlight of the festival as volunteers demonstrate the whole process - from cutting and milling the cane to squeezing the juice with an animal powered press to boiling the syrup. Volunteers will also be cooking over the hearth and stirring apple butter, and Boy Scout Troop #255 will continue the tradition of grinding apples into cider as the group has been doing at the festival for over thirty years.

Children's activities abound as children are encouraged to create games as well as do the "chores", just as a child might have done in 1850. Children of all ages will enjoy meeting the heritage breeds of animals on the farm, including our horses, cow, sheep and guinea hogs. There is always plenty of food, including kettle corn, funnel cakes, fried pies, lunch items, and more. As always during festivals, the grounds of the farmstead will be alive with music with old and new favorites playing throughout the weekend.

Sullivan County 4-H Club will again be hosting the popular Scarecrow Challenge, which encourages individuals, groups and families to be creative as they continue the tradition of making a scarecrow. To be judged, Scarecrows must be on site by 11am Saturday.

One of Exchange Place's most popular events every year is Witches Wynd, a Halloween-based storytelling adventure, which will take place on Friday, October 27 and Saturday, October 28, beginning each night at 8 pm. Tickets go on sale for the first time during the Fall Folk Arts Festival. Only a limited number of tickets are available and they sell out quickly, so we encourage people to purchase them at the Festival. Tickets are $8 and will be found at the Museum Store.

For more information, call 423-288-6071 or see <http://exchangeplace.info>. Master Gardener volunteers are needed to staff a shift at the Master Gardeners' booth and to help with children's activities, hospitality, take down/clean up and in other ways. To volunteer please contact Joy Moore at 423-348-6572 or jnjmoore@embarqmail.com.

Exchange Place is a living history farm whose mission is to preserve and interpret the heritage of mid-nineteenth century farm life in Northeast Tennessee. Exchange Place is a non-profit organization maintained and operated entirely by volunteers and is supported by donations, fundraisers, memberships and grants.

SAPS Annual Plant and Seed Swap and Silent Auction

SAPS will hold its Annual Plant and Seed Swap and Silent Auction on Saturday, October 14, at the Appalachian Fairgrounds at Gray. Building #1, 11 am – 1:30 pm. Start potting up plants and gathering seeds to share. Plan to put the most special plants in the silent auction. Peruse your recipes for a favorite to share at the pot luck luncheon. The Plant Swap is a SAPS members-only event. However, if you're not a SAPS member yet, you may join at the Swap and you'll have membership through 2018.

Our 2017 Master Gardener classes begins this coming week! My how time moves so quickly. I hope you will take the opportunity to attend one of the Fall Master Gardener Classes this year. The Master Gardener Class Planning Committee has organized a great schedule of classes.

If you haven't visited our new office at the Ron Ramsey Ag Center, you should definitely come out to a class this year on Tuesday and Thursday mornings from 9:00 AM to 12:00 PM, with the exception of a couple of field trips. We have a great audio/visual system with projectors, speakers, and microphones if needed. We also have nice training room tables, comfortable chairs, and a nice kitchen.

The Fall MG Classes will be a great opportunity for you to refresh on a topic of interest and reconnect with Master Gardeners you haven't seen in a while. Before and/or after class, you can enjoy our spacious front porch and mountain view.

Hope to see you soon!

Featured Project

Rocky Mount Living History Site

Every Monday morning the Master Gardeners meet at Rocky Mount Historical Museum to work in the many gardens, add new landscape features or maintain the 40 plus areas. Monday the Museum is closed so we can work in the historical area without being in period dress. However, many of the master gardeners also will dress for special events; the summer camps, Woolly Days, and our Fall Festival coming this October 14. Also, on Mondays we can use power tools. But Monday isn't the only day that Master Gardeners can be found working there. There is the Saturday crew that arrive before the museum opens until 11 AM taking care the Herb/Kitchen Garden and Mrs. Cobb's cutting garden. This crew has done a fabulous job of starting these areas over in early spring and providing a garden that the Governor can be proud. You do know that the Governor has made Rocky Mount the temporary capital of the territory? Other Master Gardeners work during the week, before or after open hours.

Master Gardeners have been extremely busy this year besides weeding, planting, etc. Early in the year we built a retaining wall to keep the hill from taking away the sidewalk. This fall we will do extensive planting on the hill. Also, we installed 3 flag poles in the front of the museum, and our next project is to surround them in a raised bed in the shape of Tennessee. We added a picnic area, a fire pit and water plants to the pond we installed a couple of years ago. We are still adding stones around the area, so if anyone wants to donate additional stones please contact Don Davis.

The butterfly garden has been a hit all year long; it was great to see all those monarch caterpillars last year. Another project completed this year was rebuilding the comfort station and making sure to have a large supply of lamb's ears just as you enter; plus, a supply of corn cobs inside if you forgot the lamb's ears.

We planted more trees in the lots purchased from a developer across the street, to providing screening from the new homes that would not have been there in 1791, the year Rocky Mount first-person interpreters portray. Many thanks to all the Master Gardeners who have made all the gardens and landscape important features at this museum. If you are interested in working at Rocky Mount or just want a grand tour – contact Don Davis at donfdavis@aol.com.

Perennial Surprise

Perennial gardening for me has always been so enjoyable...not because perennials come back every year, but because they're always so full of surprises. Every spring I anxiously wait to see what's going to come up. As the old saying goes, "The first year they sleep, the second year they creep and the third year they leap!" This year was no exception.

After moving into a new home two years ago, I needed to plant more lime green plants in my partial shade garden so I purchased a new Heuchera named Dolce™ Key Lime Pie (Proven Winners). With beautiful ruffled chartreuse leaves in the spring, it was supposed to turn lime green as the season progressed. It was described as having light pink flowers, but didn't flower the first year.

I already had several varieties of purple heucheras scattered around the yard and their flowers were pretty but not their main feature. I bought them for their foliage color and wasn't expecting this new one to be any different.

The next year, I was blown away by the amazing show the new Dolce™ Key Lime Pie put on. When it began to flower in mid-April, the flowers were absolutely show stopping! Tall sturdy stems held the most beautiful pale pink flowers I had ever seen on a Heuchera. Since they were planted in front of a red brick wall, the contrast was just stunning and it kept on blooming for almost seven weeks. During that time frame, we had several severe thunderstorms, but neither the rain nor the wind brought down those stems.

Last fall, I purchased two more Dolce™ Key Lime Pie Heucheras and decided to plant them in containers since I wasn't ready to plant them in the ground. They spent the winter in two 14 inch insulated plastic pots outside and did great. These are wonderful container plants and the chartreuse color makes them a special accent. Their fluffy leaves stay neat all season and their well-controlled growth makes them good companion plants for any mixed grouping.

This year they were finally planted in the ground. They went into the same bed as the first one, each about ten feet apart with white and pink Bloomathon Azaleas in between them. Can't wait to see next spring's show! With so many new cultivars on the market today, you should check them out.
